

1016-30-72

David W. Farmer* (farmer@aimath.org), 360 Portage Avenue, Palo Alto, CA 94306.

Differentiation evens out zero spacing.

We show that differentiation causes the zeros of a nice function to become more evenly spaced, and we give a precise measure of the rate at which the zeros approach equal spacing. (Received January 31, 2006)